PRE-ARRIVAL INFORMATION

Local Tradition & Custom

Bahrain is considered one of the most liberal countries in the region. As such, you need not worry too much about adhering to a certain official dress code. However, you should dress in accordance with your destination. For instance, if intending on visiting certain cultural sites such as the Al Fateh Grande Mosque, you will be expected to dress modestly, with garments covering the shoulders and knees, while female students may also be asked to cover their hair when inside the place of prayer. It is important to learn about the local tradition, customs, and way of life in order to avoid causing offence. Dressing in a manner respectful of the local culture is expected of all students, male and female alike.

You are asked to bear in mind that during the Holy Month of Ramadhan students are expected to empathise and demonstrate respect for local tradition and custom by abstaining from eating, drinking or smoking in public during the day. Avoid public displays of affection, eating, drinking or smoking in public as this is against the law during daytime throughout Ramadhan.

Bringing Pets to Bahrain

Students may bring pets into the country, only if necessary permissions are obtained. However, you should think carefully before attempting to do so as a number of documents will need to be arranged and completed in your country of origin, prior to entering Bahrain. Furthermore, many of the accommodation buildings in Bahrain may not accept pets.

A number of veterinary clinics exist in Bahrain, and some may assist you in the importation of pets, depending on your country of origin.

Arriving at the Airport

Students will have a No Objection Certificate (NOC), obtained from the Immigration Department of the Government of Bahrain, delivered to them at the Airport to facilitate their entry into the country. The NOC will be scanned and emailed to you prior to your arrival in Bahrain. You are kindly requested to carry a print-out of this document with you when you travel to Bahrain. If there is any change in immigration procedure, students will be informed accordingly.

The university welcomes students with a 'meet & greet' service. As such, a representative of the university will be available to receive you at the airport. This service is normally only made available to international students arriving through partner institutions. If you wish to avail of this service, you will need to contact the Directorate of International Relations and provide details regarding your date of departure, date of arrival, time, airline, and flight number. An Ahlia staff member will provide you with an electronic document, prior to your arrival, which you can fill out with your flight information.

Upon your arrival, and once all immigration procedures are successfully completed, the university representative will arrange transportation to your accommodation or place of temporary residence.

NOTE: Before travelling to Bahrain, you must ensure that your passport is valid for at least 6 months from your intended date of arrival in the country.

Registering with Your Embassy

Upon arriving in Bahrain, it is highly recommended that you register with your Embassy. Registration is important as you may receive security alerts, and/or other important information from your Embassy. It can also be important in other situations, such as if you wish to apply for a Bahraini driving license.

British Embassy

The British Embassy is conveniently located a short walk away (approximately 15-minutes) from the university campus.

Number: (+973) 1757 4100

French Embassy

The French Embassy is conveniently located a short walk away (approximately 5 minutes) from the university campus.

Number: (+973) 1729 8660

US Embassy

The US Embassy is located a short drive (approximately 10-minute) away from the university campus.

Number: (+973) 1724 2700

LEGAL DOCUMENTS

Acquiring a National ID Card (CPR)

Once you arrive in Bahrain, you must apply for your Bahrain National ID Card (CPR) as soon as possible. Having a Central Population Register Card (CPR) is mandatory, and is required to open a bank account, take ownership of a vehicle or property or apply for a Bahraini driving license, among other things. The university will assist you with the CPR application process by preparing the application form(s), scheduling appointments, and providing transportation to the Bahrain Central Informatics Organization (CIO). Your cooperation is required to facilitate this process. More specifically, Ahlia staff will require a passport-sized picture and an official address certificate that confirms your place of residence. You can acquire the address certificate from the office of the municipality of the area and governate where you reside by providing them with a signed and stamped letter from your landlord that confirms your place of residence, along with an electricity bill for the property. Please note that, if several students are living in one accommodation, the address certificate provided by the municipality office will only include the name of one student residing on the premises. However, all tenants sharing an accommodation are required to attend the CPR appointment at the CIO with the main tenant who is listed on the address certificate.

Having a CPR is mandatory by law so acquiring one as soon as possible will ensure a safe and smooth stay in Bahrain. Once you have acquired your CPR, you must update your student records, either online through the Online Student Information System ADREG, or by paying a visit to the Directorate of Admission & Registration.

Visa and Residency

During your stay, you will need a visa as well as a valid residency permit to stay in the Kingdom for an extended period of time. Ahlia University assists with this process. You are strongly advised to avoid leaving the country or traveling for the first 6 - 8 weeks of your stay in Bahrain whilst your residency status is processed to avoid incurring any additional expenses or delay issuing of your legal documents.

Please note that, while the University may initially pay the application fee for immigration documents such as the NOC, Visa, Residency Permit and CPR card, you are expected to reimburse the total amount once notified by the International Relations Directorate. Students should expect a total expense of approximately 150 Dinars to acquire these documents.

You are advised to carry your national ID card (CPR) and university student ID card with you at all times.

NOTE: The visa issued for international students at Ahlia University is a student visa. As such, it does not permit the student to seek any form of employment. Doing so would be a violation of state law.

LIVING IN BAHRAIN

The 2018 Expat Explorer Survey, commissioned by HSBC Expat and conducted by YouGov, ranked Bahrain the 8th most tolerant country in the world to live in. The HSBC Expat Explorer Survey and Expat Country Guide can easily be accessed online, and contains many useful tips, including key phrases in Arabic.

Expat Insider has ranked Bahrain the number 1 expat destination in the world for the year 2017.

Money Matters

The country's currency is the Bahraini Dinar. One Bahraini Dinar (BD) is divided into 1,000 Fils. Foreign currency such as the USD may be accepted by shops and stores, however, may likely be subject to a low exchange rate. The Bahraini Dinar is pegged to the US Dollar at a fixed rate of 1= US $ 2.65. Exchange rates between the Bahraini Dinar with the British Pound Sterling or Euro will fluctuate accordingly.

Link to Currency Exchange: <http://www.xe.com/ucc>

NOTE: Most ATM machines have a daily limit of 500 Bahraini Dinars on withdrawals.

Public Holidays

Students must refer to the Ahlia University calendar, available in print and on the website for information on public holidays. In Bahrain the majority of public holidays are religious holidays. These include:

- The Islamic New Year (1 day) which starts with the month of Muharram, in accordance with the lunar calendar
- Ashoora (2 days) which is observed primarily by Shiite Muslims and represents a significant day of mourning
- The birth of Prophet Mohammed (1 day)
- Eid al Fitr (3 days) which marks the end of Ramadan
- Eid al Adha (4 days) which is celebrated on the 10th day of the pilgrimageto Mecca (Hajj)

The Islamic calendar is based on a lunar month, and is thus adjusted by approximately 11 days each year when compared to the Gregorian calendar. As such, it is difficult to determine the dates of public holidays in advance, as this depends on lunar sightings, and the shifting of the Islamic calendar. The university closes on these public holidays. These holidays are tentatively marked in the academic calendar, and are normally confirmed a couple of days in advance.

Bahrain also celebrates other national and international holidays:

- December 16th National Day: Celebrating the independence of the Kingdom of Bahrain
- December 17th Accession Day: Celebrating His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa's Accession to the Throne
- January 1st New Year's Day
- May 1st International Labour Day

NOTE: All official public holidays falling on a weekend are normally observed on the weekdays immediately after.

ACCOMMODATION

Bahrain has a lot to offer in the way of accommodation options. Whether you are looking to live in a skyscraper, or rent a villa in an expat compound away from the hustle and bustle of the city, the choice is plentiful, and the choice is yours. Rental periods vary, from one month to one year; this will depend on the location and landlord. You may negotiate directly. However, once you enter into a contract, it is quite difficult to break the lease agreement or change it.

You are advised to start looking for accommodation before arriving in Bahrain to ease the process and transition at the beginning of your period of stay. Sharing an apartment with a fellow international student can help minimise costs and ensure companionship during your free time.

NOTE: Choose Exhibition Area, Gudaibiya, Salmaniya, or Juffair in the 'Regions' sections to ensure proximity to the university campus for your convenience. The regions are in descending order of proximity.

The price of a fully furnished apartment with two bedrooms and bathrooms will typically range from BD 300-700. A studio apartment for a single person may cost as little as BD 200. These accommodation options usually include building security and utilities, and may contain a common swimming pool and gym. Prices vary by agent and location, so make sure to find the accommodation that will suit your needs, and approach more than one agent, if possible.

You need not necessarily find an accommodation before you arrive in Bahrain as it is fairly easy to find a venue to stay in temporarily while long-term housing is sorted. Should you find an acceptable accommodation prior to your arrival, you are advised to hold off on any payment until you are able to visit and inspect the apartment in person. You may visit these apartments without the need to refer to an agent.

There are several real estate agencies that can help you find a place once you are in Bahrain.

NOTE: Landlords will normally request 3-months advanced payment for an apartment. As most ATMS have a daily limit of 500 Bahraini Dinars on withdrawals, you are requested to please plan accordingly.

TRANSPORT

The Directorate of Students Activities and Services in the Deanship of Student Affairs may provide limited transport facilities for students' studying at Ahlia. Non-Bahraini students living in the Kingdom of Bahrain are given guidance regarding the available methods of transport in Bahrain.

Although Bahrain's public transport system is improving, it is not the most thorough or sophisticated in the Gulf. How useful you find it will depend on your chosen area of residence and destination. As such, it may be easier to get around by walking, if in the vicinity of the University, or to take a taxi cab that uses a meter. Car rental is fairly inexpensive if several students share the cost, and the extremely cheap petrol makes it a worthwhile option.

NOTE: Please drive carefully and safely. Only drive if you have a valid license (on hand). For a prolonged stay in Bahrain, a student must have an international driving license, which will require a stamp from the concerned authority in Bahrain.

Traffic Laws

As of March 2016, Bahrain's traffic laws were reviewed and updated to better suit the driving conditions of the country. Strict laws have been implemented to discourage and eliminate any traffic offences that may endanger other drivers. These new rules are being enforced by the Bahrain traffic police force and include some heavy fines and punishments. Please take the time to read the traffic violations and consequences and ensure that you abide by the new traffic laws to avoid any issues with the traffic police.

The Traffic Directorate's website <http://www.traffic.gov.bh>

TELECOMMUNICATIONS

Bahrain has a sophisticated mobile telecommunications industry. You are advised to obtain a local telephone number upon arrival. The arrivals area at the airport has branches of all three main service providers.

Obtaining a local number will allow you to save money on calls that you may need to make within the first weeks of being in Bahrain. It will also facilitate communication with the university, as you may receive some text message (SMS) announcements and notifications from time to time. Please update your student records with your phone number using the Online Student Information System ADREG, or by paying a visit to the Directorate of Admission & Registration.

Mobile lines in Bahrain are relatively cheap. According to a recent study commissioned by the Telecommunications Regulatory Authority, Bahrain enjoys some of the lowest telecom prices in the region. A variety of options are available, catering to every need. There are, generally, two types of basic packages to choose from:

Prepaid - With prepaid, the calls are usually more expensive, as there is no monthly rental cost, and you will not get an itemized bill showing the calls you have made. However, you do not risk running up a large bill that you might find difficult to pay. You will have to 'top up' with credit to make phone calls.

Postpaid - With postpaid, the calls are usually less expensive but you pay a monthly rental. If you choose postpaid, make sure you keep track of how much you are using your phone, particularly for more expensive calls – and especially if you allow somebody else to use your phone. It is important to consider how you will use your phone, and what services you will need.

NOTE: Internet data packages are available for both options.

Providers:

Bahrain has several telecommunications providers to choose from:

- Batelco
- VIVA
- Zain

NOTE: All providers will normally require a valid CPR (National ID) Card for postpaid packages.

Branches for all providers are plentiful, with some located inside or near the university campus. All providers have useful and informative websites which will help you select the most suitable package.

HEALTH CENTRES

Bahrain is considered one of the healthiest countries in the Gulf, with one of the most advanced healthcare systems in the wider region. There is more medical staff (doctors, nurses and dentists) per person in Bahrain than any other country in the GCC. The country's healthcare system includes four state-sponsored hospitals, 14 private institutions and a large number of clinics and maternity hospitals. Expatriates may access Bahrain's public healthcare system, for emergency services and specialist procedures, with a Population Registration Card (CPR) at a nominal fee or charge.

Bahrain's small size means that emergency health centres are always only a short drive away. It would be best to inform the Directorate of International Relations of any health-related emergencies/accidents (1729 8999 Ext.8900). Keep a note of your address in your wallet/purse in case of emergencies.

Salmaniya Medical Complex

Bahrain's largest public hospital, Salmaniya Medical Complex (SMC) is a short drive away from the university campus (12-minute drive if no traffic) and will provide you with their extensive services for any medical sickness or emergency.

Ear, Nose & Throat Department	1727 9768

Fitness

Body building is a popular activity in Bahrain. You will be spoiled for options when looking for gyms, and other similar health clubs. One of Bahrain's most popular gyms, Al Gosaibi Gym, is located down the road from the campus, with several smaller gyms in the area as well. Fitness First is another international chain which is located within walking distance of the university campus, approximately 15-minutes away on foot. Make sure you consider your needs from a gym before registering in one, to avoid unnecessary costs. There are several CrossFit circuits and many martial arts institutions if you wish train in one.

PLACES OF WORSHIP

Being a Muslim country, Muslim students will easily find a mosque in their area of residence. There are prayer-rooms located in the university campus by the Theatre.

Bahrain has a large number of registered Christian churches of different denominations. Services are celebrated a number of times during the week, and are conducted in different languages including Arabic, English, French, and Hindi. Most of these churches are located in the Capital District in Manama, making them conveniently close to the university campus. The most prominent churches are:

- The National Evangelical Church 1724 2578
- St Christopher's Cathedral (Anglican) 1725 3866
- Sacred Heart Church (Catholic) 1725 3598

Bahrain also has several active temples for various religions and faiths such as Hinduism.

Information regarding location, directions and additional details of all religious institutions can be easily found online.

ACADEMIC RULES, GUIDANCE & ADVICE

Student Rights and Obligations

Ahlia University aspires to build a strong relationship between students and their fellow students, and between students and the academic staff through the educational process. Consequently, students, whilst enjoying all their rights and privileges, are expected to respect their duties and commitments. Some of the rights and privileges are listed below:

1. Students must take full responsibility for their actions and behaviour within the university.
2. Students are expected to fully understand and comply with the university rules and regulations.
3. Students are to avoid offending the feelings of others by direct actions or as a result of participating in different university committees. Students must always have mutual respect for their fellow students.
4. Students must respect the rights and privacy of others.

5. Students must raise any concerns at any early stage and seek to resolve them through the appropriate University channels.
6. Students must strive to maintain the University's good reputation and image at all times.

Student Identity Card

After completing the admission process, students are issued a university ID card containing their name, photo, college and programme. Students must be able to present their ID card at any point within the various departments of the university.

The student ID cards are also used as an identity, permitting use of the university car parks, exam entry, library access, etc. Students are not allowed to give their ID cards to anyone else, inside or outside the university.

- Student Email

Upon admission, each student is issued a unique Ahlia university email which will be used as the official communication channel between the student and Ahlia university faculty and administrative staff. Please note that it is mandatory to use the Ahlia email and that personal emails will not be used by the University. All students must therefore check their Ahlia email on a regular basis.

Credit Hour System

Courses are weighted in terms of credit hours. One semester credit hour is equivalent to 15 lecture hours per academic semester, or from 30 to 45 laboratory or training hours. Courses are designated by an index of three numbers.

The first number refers to lecture hours per week, the second to laboratory hours and the third to credit hours. Thus, if a course is indexed with (3-2-4) for example, this means that 3 stands for lecture hours per week per semester, 2 stands for laboratory hours per week per semester, and 4 is the sum of lectures and laboratory hours in terms of credits.

One (1) credit hour is equivalent to forty (40) notional hours. For a typical course of 3 credit hours, this will mean a total of 120 notional hours per semester.

Grading Systems

The university adopts a letter grading system that includes plus (+) and minus (-) indicators. The following table, which should be used as a guideline, shows each letter grade with its equivalence in terms of grade points and percentage:

Letter Grade	Grade Points	Percentage
A	4.00	90 - 100
A-	3.67	87 - 89
B+	3.33	84 - 86
B	3.00	80 - 83
B-	2.67	77 - 79
C+	2.33	74 - 76
C	2.00	70 - 73
C-	1.67	67 - 69
D+	1.33	64 - 66
D	1.00	60 - 63
F	0.00	Below 60

Five more letter symbols are in use: "W", "I", "IF", "IG" and "IP".

"W" stands for Withdrawal.

"I" stands for incomplete work and is normally awarded to students who do not fulfil all course requirements by the end of the semester and who present a valid excuse acceptable to the course instructor. The grade of "I" is assigned by the course instructor and not the student.

The course requirements must be completed before the end of the following semester. If, within the designated time period, the student fails to complete/attend his/her final exam the "I" is converted to "IF" grade. In cases where the student is still missing any other course requirements (ex: quizzes, assignments.etc) the student's final grade will be calculated based on those requirements that have been met. "IG" (In Progress) grade is assigned to students who are still working on their dissertation, and is governed by the same rules as in the "I" grade, but it is converted to "IW" designating a failure in completing requirement. "IP" grade is assigned to students who pass their dissertation or Internship.

Grade Point Average (GPA)

The Grade Point Average (GPA) is an index representing the students' academic achievement. The computation of the GPA is determined as follows:

1. Each letter grade is assigned grade points (Refer to Grading Systems).
2. These points are multiplied by the credit hours of the corresponding course to obtain "quality points" for each course.
3. The total quality points are divided by the total semester credit hours officially undertaken by the student. A GPA may range from 0.00 to 4.00; calculations are carried only to two decimal points.

For purposes of academic evaluation, two types of GPA are used:

1. Semester GPA which is based on courses taken during any given semester.
2. Cumulative GPA (CGPA) which is based on all the academic work taken at the university, thus far.

Challenge of Grade

Upon submission of a Challenge-of-Grade Form and payment of any stipulated fees, students have a right to challenge their end-of-semester grades provided that the deadline to challenge has not been exceeded.

The deadline for challenging a grade is during the subsequent semester as specified in the academic calendar, after the challenged grade was awarded. For purposes of this deadline, the summer session does not count. Upon being officially informed of the challenge of grade by the Directorate of Admission and Registration, each College, under supervision of its Dean, sets up an ad hoc committee of three faculty members to review challenged grades.

Grades may be revised upwards or kept unchanged at the discretion of the committee and all grades reviewed accordingly are final, i.e. not subject to further review.

Adding and Dropping Courses

Students are allowed to add and drop courses during the Add and Drop period specified in the Academic Calendar, which normally falls during the first week of the semester. Following the Add and Drop period, students may withdraw from their courses but the letter "W" will be inscribed on their records. For further information, please refer to the University website.

Student Behaviour and Conduct

A student's behaviour has a significant impact on their academic career and reflects on successful relationships between students, faculty members and fellow students. Further, good behaviour and conduct allows students to benefit from their experience with others, and enjoy a successful university life filled with mutual cooperation and understanding. As per HEC (Higher Education Council) directives, Ahlia University follows University of Bahrain students' code of conduct. Violations of code of conduct include but are not limited to:

1. Disabling lectures or any related incitement actions.
2. Cheating, plagiarism and any related actions.
3. Any type of insult to faculty, staff or student.
4. Any violation of dress code.
5. Damaging the university's facilities.

Academic Misconduct

In a small number of cases, there are students who are tempted to gain an unfair advantage in their assessments. This behaviour is considered unacceptable. There are at least three types of academic misconduct, which Ahlia University acknowledges and wishes to prevent: (1) plagiarism; (2) collusion; and (3) personation.

Plagiarism is a serious violation of academic integrity. Ahlia University has a zero-tolerance policy when it comes to plagiarism. The University utilizes plagiarism detection software.

1. Plagiarism includes the practice of presenting ideas, words, data, diagrams, illustrations or other output as original pieces of work or without proper acknowledgment (including appropriate identification and referencing) of the source.
2. Collusion is an act, involving two or more students, to deceive or mislead the University by submitting identical assignments or other pieces of work and presenting it as individual efforts.
3. Personation consists of one or more individuals preparing assignments for another student, or taking the place of another student in an examination.
