OVERVIEW

Ahlia University (AU) is a private not-for-profit university operating in the Kingdom of Bahrain. AU is owned by a private holding company 'The Arab Academy for Research and Studies' (AARS). The holding company is collectively owned by a group of 35 shareholders that include highly profiled and prominent individuals and companies, from Bahrain, Kuwait, and Saudi Arabia. The founders articulated their vision of a distinctive institution of higher education, fully funded and managed by the private sector, to ensure that science and technology, on the one hand, and humanities and social sciences, on the other, take their rightful place in the building and advancement of the Kingdom of Bahrain and other Gulf States.
